Individual special travel requests

- If you change a flight (outbound, return, or both), you are responsible for all other arrangements during your extra time abroad (hotels, land transportation, meals, etc.). When you're not on the EF College Break tour, you're on your own.
- We cannot guarantee that we can accommodate your requested special travel itinerary; nor can we guarantee specific airline or flight requests.
- If you travel abroad before your group, you are responsible for meeting your group at the first hotel on your regular itinerary. If you request a departure from an international airport other than your group's departure airport, you are responsible for arranging your own transportation to that airport.
- You must start and finish your trip at the same domestic gateway. For example, you cannot fly out of New York and return to Boston.
- EF cannot arrange extended layover requests. For example, if you are flying from Paris back to Los Angeles, we cannot satisfy a request to stop over in New York City for two days.
- Outbound flights to Europe are overnight flights; keep this in mind when choosing your departure date, should you choose to change your outbound departure date. Return flights are same-day flights.

Fees

- There is a $150 service fee for Special Travel.
- The deadline to request Special Travel is 90 days prior to your trip.
- Once you submit a Special Travel application, the request is final and cannot be changed or reversed.
- Your flight itinerary will be available 30 days prior to your departure on your online account at efcollegebreak.com.
- If you request a gateway other than that of your group, you may be subject to additional fees. Please call 1-800-766-2645 for details.

This request and listed fees are subject to change.
